

The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, June 7. 1704.

From the Amst. Cour. & Gaz. dated June 13 & 14.

Frankfort, May 4.

Yesterday we receiv'd Advice, that the Elector of Bavaria broke up from his Camp near Stockach the 25th in the Night and march'd with great Expedition towards Pfullendorf, and from thence towards Sulgau or Saulgen: the Prince of Baden follows him hard. The English Infantry commanded by General Churchill pass'd the Main Yesterday at Costheim.

Sturgard, June 6. The Elector of Bavaria came the 3d of this Month to Wiblingen, and the next Day pass'd the Danube at Ulm; the Prince of Baden is advanc'd within a League of that Place, the Elector seems to have a Design to march into the Camp he had last Year, between Lavingen and Dillingen. The Bridge of Boats intended for the Service of the Forces led by the Duke of Marlborough is carry'd from Heilbron towards the Danube.

From the Duke of Marlborough's Camp at Ladenbourg, June 4. Yesterday the Duke of Marlborough continued his March from Weinheim to Ladenbourg, in which the Duke with the Generals have taken their Quarters; the Troops pass'd the Neckar over a Bridge of Boats, and encamp'd on the River side over against the Town. The Duke intends to halt here till the 6th to give the necessary Orders for joining the Auxiliary Troops that are to serve under his Command, with whom and the English Horse his Grace designs to proceed to the Danube, having given Orders to our Foot and Artillery to follow with 21 Squadrons and 7 Battallions of the Danish Troops that are marching from the Meuse under the Duke of Wirtemberg, to reinforce us with what Expedition they can. We have this Morning receiv'd Advice from the Count de Velen General of the Palatine Horse, who commands the Forces in the Lines of Stohlhoffen, that the Marshal de Tallard repass'd the Rhine on the 2d instant at Altenheim, and was marching towards Landau, in order as it is suppos'd, to join the Marshal de Villeroy, or to oppose our passage over the Rhine; the Bridge which the Governour of Philipsburg is making there, giving them a Jealousie we are coming that way.

Prince Eugene of Savoy is come to Heilbron, in order to have an Interview with the Duke of Marlborough.

Philipsburg, June 7. The Marshal de Tallard is arriv'd Post at Landau. His Army is marching down the other side of the Rhine from Brisac; and to day we saw some of their Squadrons and Grenadiers. The Duke of Marlborough is marching from Ladenbourg towards the Danube by the way of Pforzheim and Esslingen. P.S. The Marshal de Tallard is return'd to Impffingen, and this Morning was at Langencandel. The March of the Duke of Marlborough has made the Enemy at a Loss what Measures to take.

Frankfort, June 8. Yesterday a Courier pass'd thro' this Place going to Cassel, with Advice that the Troops of Hesse decamp'd the 5th Instant from Bruch-sal to march towards Bavaria; They encamp'd Yesterday at Pforzheim, and the 10th will be at Esslingen. The Palatine Troops and those of the Circle of Westphalia are all that are left on the Upper Rhine to guard Stohlhoffen. The English Train of Artillery arriv'd yesterday at Mentz, and to Day is to be carry'd higher under a Guard of 1500 Men.

Mentz, June 7. Two days ago the Artillery and Ammunition furnish'd by the District of Frankfort arriv'd here; and yesterday our Artillery was embark'd likewise, in order to be sent together up the Rhine to Philipsburg. 'Tis said the Marshal de Tallard is with his Forces at Haguenau, waiting the coming up of the Marshal de Villeroy.

Cologne, June 10. The Troops commanded by the Duke of Wirtemberg, that are marching after the Duke of Marlborough, pass'd the Rhine yesterday here and at Mulheim over 3 Bridges, and march'd towards Siegburg, from whence they will proceed to Frankfort. They will make all possible Expedition, the Duke of Wirtemberg having receiv'd an Express yesterday from the Duke of Marlborough pressing them to make Haste. Letters from the Moselle tell us that on the 3d 14 Battallions of French and Spaniards, and 14 Squadrons pass'd by Luxemburg, to follow the Marshal de Villeroy.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated June 14.

Geneva, June 3. A Suspension of Arms was agreed between the King of France's Troops in Languedoc and the Camisars; but it seems the former had no other Design in it than to amuse the Camisars while they could find an Opportunity to surround them and cut them off; but the Camisars, looking to their own Safety with their usual Watchfulness, discover'd the Snare laid for them, and now the Flame of War in the Sevens that was thought to be stifled, is broken out again with as much Violence as before. We are assur'd of the Truth of this, not only by a Courier from Spain, who pass'd through this Place yesterday, and was oblig'd to take a Guard from Montpellier to Nimes, but several private Letters confirm it. And 'tis reported there has been an Action, in which the Camisars had the better; and that they are grown more numerous than ever.

Geneva, June 3. Cavalier, the chief Leader of the Camisars, having had a personal Interview with the Marshal de Villars, in which it was agreed the Camisars should retire unmolested out of the Kingdom; there wanted nothing but the Ratification of this Agreement from Court: Mean time the Camisars lay quiet at Calviffon with the Hostages the Marshal de Villars had put into their Hands, and spent their time in Praying and singing Psalms, which drew in to them the People of the Country round them. While they were thus employ'd the Marshal de Villars, in breach of his Word given, laid a Design to get his Hostages out of their Hands and to fall upon them; but they having Intelligence of this Conspiracy attack'd the King's Troops that were advancing towards Calviffon to put it in Execution, and kill'd above 800 of them.

From the Paris Gazette a la Main, dated June 2.

Paris, June 2. Part of the Troops that were employ'd in Languedoc against the Camisars, are about to March

March for Savoy; and part for Spain. 'Tis said Roland, one of their Leaders, desires to make a separate Agreement; being unwilling Cavalier should have the sole Honour of the Accommodation; and that the Court has sent Orders to humour him, and put an end at once to this Affair.

Paris, June 2. Letters from Madrid of the 17th advise that in the several Places already taken by the K. of Spain 19 Pieces of Cannon were found, and some Ammunition; that the King had sent a Body of Troops to lay Siege to Penamajor and Castell Branco, the only fortified Places besides Santarein in the Way to Lisbon; and that Prince Tlerclaus de Tilly is advancing towards the Tagus, to joyn the King if there should be Occasion.

From the Paris Gazette a la Main, dated June 6.

Paris, June 6. The Advices from Spain confirm the taking of all the Places before which the Spanish and French Troops have appear'd. Castell Branco is likewise taken, and 4 Battallions of Dutch that retir'd out of it were made Prisoners. These Letters add, that the Enemies had not yet appear'd in a Body to make Head against King Philip V. The Count de Toulouse, Admiral of France, arriv'd the 25th of May at Cadix, whence he will go after the Enemy into the Streights. 'Tis confidently reported he has 31 Ships of War, and that he is to be joyn'd by a Squadron fitted out at Toulon. The Trenches were open'd before Suzu the 3d of this Month.

London, June 7.

Lisbon, June 1. The 28th of last Month the King of Portugal set out from hence for Santarein in his way towards the Frontiers. The Government is in the Hands of the Queen Dowager of England during his Absence. The King of Spain follow'd him the 31st, and 'tis suppos'd our King will proceed no farther than Santarein till his Catholick Majesty arrives there. Advice is come from the Province of Beira, that General Fagel who was with a Body of Dutch Troops about Castellbranco, was surrounded by a superior Number of the Enemy, and oblig'd to fight his way through them, in doing which the Dutch suffer'd considerable Loss. They write from Faro, that the Count of Thoulouse had appear'd off that Place making for Cadix, with 20 Ships of War and some Tenders.

In Monday's Courant at the bottom of the first Column, for Duke read Prince of Lorrain.
